To know him was to love him. Never was a more faithful friend to the poor; always willing to lend a helping hand to all in need. In sickness he was at the tedside, ever ready to do all in his power; was kind to everyone.

In his death we have lost one of our most dutiful and respected friends. All was done that could be done by physicians, kind friends, loving sisters and a dear brother, who was always at his bedside, night and day, never tiring, but faithfully administering to his wants. But alas! if was in vain. He was destined to go, and at 10 o'clock Saturday morning his spirit took its flight to that MIKE TURNER, a drayman of Schell old family servant.
